Part 2

Having just sent out the January Gazette a meeting of our weather committee has determined that it would be best if we have a ZOOM ONLY meeting this Sunday. We feel it is wise to cancel the 'in person' gathering at Deerfield. The end of the week is predicted to be the coldest of this rare and extreme cold snap. We concluded this morning that at the very least it would bring our attendance way down and could be a challenge for those who did brave the cold to attend. Potential health and comfort issues are of course a factor in this decision.

The good news is that we will have our meeting on Zoom which we did with great success during the pandemic. We are preparing a video of the auction material we promised to show you and we will have a showing of Don Denman's excellent video on the history of the post in America, an outstanding not to be missed presentation. As before, we will conduct our short business meeting before the presentation. Show and tell is still on the table and I will repeat my encouragement to participate in that.

The meeting will start at 2 p.m. but the zoom will start at 1:30 for informal chatting and socializing.
